The content of the pages has to be fluid and all the elements have to be responsive if the window size changes. A: My way of doing this was to place my web pages in a DWG file. That way I can measure the viewport size when a web page is loaded into a browser. The views for the page are displayed as a pivot table that is open in the application. Then I can choose which views I want to load at a specific size as the different pages

I want to display. In this case you can view the website using a mobile device. You can use for this.

Working at home Life at home. This is the most basic of terms and yet at times it seems the most elusive. What does it mean to be at home? Why do people want to be at home? Are they afraid of leaving their families? Do they have children who are still young? What can we do about it? People like to be home, they want to be home and they want the home to be the best it can be. They want to spend time with their family and relatives. They want to entertain their friends, and so they are always at home. Why do people want to be at home? Because it is a place of safety, a place of security and calm. There is always plenty to eat, lots of warm air and lights, and these things are all conducive to living, in a way. It takes some effort to be at home and to fill that home with people, but it is effort well worth it. There is always the possibility of a power failure, and in an emergency such as a flood or fire
