A: Because Windows 8 Client has been renamed Windows 8.1 and Windows 10 now has many more features than just what is required to be able to run Office 2016. Windows 10 is an operating system for personal computers, tablets, and smartphones designed to replace Windows 8 and Windows 8.1. Source: Wikipedia Also there seems to be an issue with the 2016 Client that is causing your issue: An issue has been identified in Microsoft Windows Server 2016 Essentials, and Windows Server 2016 Datacenter Editions version 6, where the computers that are added to a server fail to activate. Users cannot log on to these computers. Source Windows Server 2016 appears to have another activation issue: Windows Server 2016 64-bit with Windows 8.1 and versions of Windows that contain Windows 10 have an odd issue where the computers that are added to a server fail to activate. The issue occurred after the November Update and it appeared in Windows 10 versions 1703, 1709 and 1710. It is not known how to repair this issue. At the time this article is being written the main fix is waiting for Microsoft to release a patch. Until then a workaround is to switch to the Home version or to another server that is not affected by the issue. Source Here is a page to see what version of server you are running. Windows Server 2016 Home Edition (64 bit) Windows Server 2016 Datacenter Edition (64 bit) Windows Server 2016 Essentials (64 bit) During the adult life there is a sharp rise of free radicals that involves in cellular senescence and aging.
